

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. Agent, Conley Drug Co.

LEGISLATURE ENDS WITH GOOD LIST OF ACHIEVEMENTS

through at least the anti-lobby law, one of the more important of the measures passed—yet, when the session grew older, the checks and balances system resulted in other democratic leaders being able to prevent some of the desires of the governor from being carried out—namely the passage of the group of measures, introduced by Mayor Joseph E. Bell of Indianapolis, over which perhaps the most bitter of the struggles before the legislature was staged.

As to the effect of the work of the legislature on the democratic party throughout the state, the question of course, is entirely problematical, for a legislature may not be accurately judged at this close range.

But it is certain that the body followed exactly the prognostications that had been made concerning it when it convened. It did not pass any particularly radical legislation. Except in one or two instances did it touch subjects that would affect business of the state to an appreciable degree and there is considerable question whether any of the measures passed, including workmen's compensation and the mediation and arbitration measures, will be other than aids to business.

Politics Played from All Angles. It had been presaged that this session would be one in which politics would predominate. That was true. Politics was played from all angles and it is difficult now to determine whether the democrats or republicans got the best of the situation, from a statewide standpoint. There is a great number of bull moose "watchful waiters" just now and to these both sides were appealing. The democrats were in the majority, and of course will be called on to take the principal share of the responsibility for what was done—whether it turns out to be good or bad. Yet the republicans stuck to their previously announced plans and did not hinder legislation that they considered good, just because it was being fostered by the opposition.

The legislation of this session will fall far short of the total bulk of that done in 1913. There are many measures waiting for action by the governor and undoubtedly many of these will be approved by him—yet the total number of bills passed at this time in 1913 exceeded the total number now passed by this legislature by some 50 "laws."

The passage of the amended Jones primary bill redeemed the democratic platform pledge thereon—and the bill, by many, is said to be a better instrument than that proposed by Rep. Jones originally. His spectacular fight for the enactment of such a law has brought him to the front ranks in the democratic party and it is probable he will figure more often from now on in state democratic affairs. The bill provides for the nomination by primary of all officers except those nominated at a state convention. And it also provides a preferential primary system for president, vice president, United States senator and governor. It probably will "change the political map" in Indiana on the governorship situation in both the democratic and republican parties.

SAYS EYE IS VITAL PART OF HUMAN BODY

"The eye is the most vital and important part of the human body," said Dr. H. A. Thomson, the local eye specialist, in a talk to the brotherhood of the Quincy Street church last night on "The Human Eye."

The lecture was illustrated by charts and blackboards. Explanation was made of the various parts of the eye, including long and short sightedness, stigmatism and color blindness.

"The eyebrows are not, as a majority of the people think, for beauty but they have a purpose. They gather the perspiration and dirt particles from the forehead that would enter the eye if they were not there," he said.

Refreshments were served following the talk and arrangements were made for the next meeting to be held Apr. 12.
